How to Fly

THE Germans seem to have started something with their air-gliding contests, in which one flier remained in the air three hours in an airplane without a motor. A gliding craze now is sweeping England, progressive London papers offering big prizes. And it's a safe bet that the gliding craze will invade America and furnish thrills for the cautious who prefer to stay on the ground and "let George do it" in the air.

A glider is a machine that travels on "air waves" about the same as a sailboat travels on water. It has a rudder for steering, also "control surfaces" which the pilot tilts to make the craft rise or descend and to balance the glider if it gets lopsided and starts to tilt. First you have to master "aerial balance," same as you learn to balance on a bicycle. All depends on the pilot's skill. He has to learn to use his artificial wings as a young bird learns to fly. You sit in the car, preferably on a hillside. Helpers grasp a long rope, attached to the glider, and run with it until the wind catches under the wings and you "take off" like a kite. Then you fall.

A motorless glider, of the type used by Herr Hentzen, German gliding champion, moves forward 16 feet for each foot it descends after taking off from a hillside, provided there are no up-gusts of wind to help move the craft upward and forward. The Germans started their gliding by long and patient watching of hawks, gulls and swallows in flight. Air experts and mathematicians thus figured out the curves and tricks used by soaring birds. The chief obstacle to gliding by man is that the pilot is apt at any second to strike a new air current or hole. German observers discovered that birds "instinctively scent" new air currents with their heads. So the Germans are trying to develop a similar "air sense." They are helped by a secret chemical skin-coating which makes their faces sensitive to the least touch of wind.

As you probably suspect, the German general staff began quietly to investigate gliding as far back as 1915. This was learned recently by French spies. The peace treaty forbids Germany making high-power airplanes. So she turns to planes without motors.

Intrepid Mr. Smith

MR. LEATHAM D. SMITH is an ambitious young man. More than that, he is intelligent and agreeable—perhaps one might say captivating. But in rushing in where angels fear to tread, he is inviting a political application of the epigram which we are too polite to finish.

Mr. Smith wanted the Committee of 44's endorsement as a senatorial candidate to oppose Senator La Follette. In that case there was something more or less angelic about the gentleman who jumped in ahead of Mr. Smith, but there seemed nothing in the latter's experience that should have proved food for Mr. Smith's aspirations. Indeed, Mr. Smith lost some of his pep for that particular adventure, but he is now defying lightning from another political storm. In a word, as some readers may recall, Mr. Smith has tackled the ambitious job of attempting to defeat the re-election of Gov. John J. Blaine.

There are some things about that situation which it would seem would have impressed themselves upon a politician of even limited experience. Gov. Blaine polled almost as many votes as Senator La Follette, and taking into account the socialist opposition with which he contended and which Senator La Follette did not have to meet, it probably might be called a neck and neck race. The governor was opposed by a man of considerable political experience and no small shrewdness. Mr. Morgan had a record of rather exceptional public service, and a campaign issue all his own which, under ordinary circumstances, might have been expected to commend him very strongly to the public. How Mr. Smith can expect, as an independent candidate, to make anything like the showing made by Mr. Morgan as a regular party candidate within the primary, we cannot even conjecture, and yet Mr. Morgan was beaten by upwards of 180,000 votes.

The result could hardly have been more conclusive. Indeed, there seems nothing to Mr. Smith's new political enterprise but that young hope which springs eternal. Nothing could be more plain than that a substantial majority of Wisconsin people want Mr. Blaine to be entrusted with a second term as governor of Wisconsin, and if political prophecy is ever safe, Mr. Smith's friends seem justified in advising him that some time in November his pride will suffer a serious wound.

Language

FRANKLIN C. H. LEE, linguist, announces that Chinese is easier to learn than English—that you can pick it up in six months. But what kind of Chinese does he mean? We heard a commercial man from China recently say that he had given up trying to learn to talk to his customers in their native tongue. The reason was that there are too many tongues. Several hundred, in fact, and all different. This chap spent six months trying to get a grip on Cantonese—evidently he wasn't as bright as Mr. Lee—and gave up when he discovered that twenty miles outside of Canton Cantonese was unintelligible. Shanghai and Peking have, we understand, separate tongues. And every other village in the back country speaks a different sort of gibberish. The only universal language is written Chinese, which does not consist of word sounds, but of idea pictures—about 40,000 of them. Every educated Chinese knows what the characters represent, but he pronounces the words entirely differently. Recently the Chinese have developed a phonetic alphabet of 39 letters, which will perhaps help—but it won't help much until there is a universal language as well as alphabet. We don't realize how much it means to progress to have a universal language so that we can spread ideas and information across a continent with uniformity and precision. It is a tremendous aid to business, education, citizenship.

The Kaleidoscope

IF republics are ungrateful, what about monarchies? Greece in the short space of about two years has expelled King Constantine and elevated Venizelos to power, recalled Constantine and exiled Venizelos, kicked out Tino again and recalled Venizelos. There is nothing in republican history to tie that, we believe. Republics have put their big men out of business, but in this country at least when they have been dismissed for cause by the people they have been through for good. There is nothing in our history to equal the kaleidoscopic shift and reversal of public favor which marks the recent history of many of the European monarchies. Recent events seem to challenge the conclusion of many governmental experts of the Lord Macaulay school, who have held it axiomatic that a republic by its very nature is more unstable than a monarchy. They are all taking their bumps nowadays, and the most stable governments visible on the earth are the American republics.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Calvin F. Schwenker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Schwenker, 222 South Nineteenth street, was this afternoon appointed state deputy bank examiner by A. E. Kuolt, according to advice from Madison. Mr. Schwenker graduated a year ago from the state university at Madison and since then has been employed as accountant by the state tax commission.

John H. Gatterdam left this noon for Milwaukee to complete his course in dentistry at Marquette university.

Mrs. John McLaren, 117 North Fourth street, died suddenly early this morning of heart failure. Mrs. McLaren was sixty-three years old and had resided in La Crosse since 1872 when she moved here from Houston county.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colburn of Onalaska have left for the Pacific coast where they will make their home in the future.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Architects Schick and Roch have completed the plans for the new court house and all that remains to be done is to blue print the whole outfit. The plans will then be turned over to the county committee and bids for the construction of the building will be advertised for. The building will not be started until spring.

Secretary George Timmings of the Y. M. C. A. is in Milwaukee attending a state convention of "Y" secretaries.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Halvorsen, bishop of the Norwegian Synod of the northwest and pastor of the Coon Prairie church, has resigned as pastor of that congregation because the work is too much for him. He will continue as bishop of the synod, however.

At a special meeting this evening at 7:30 the council will act upon the ordinance granting the aldermen and the mayor compensation for their services. The matter of paying these officials has been agitated for some time and was received with favor when it was introduced some time ago. There is little doubt that it will pass.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The tower of the high school building is being painted.

After October 1, 1892 all barber shops on the south side will close at eight o'clock each evening except Saturdays, according to an agreement reached at a meeting of barbers last night.

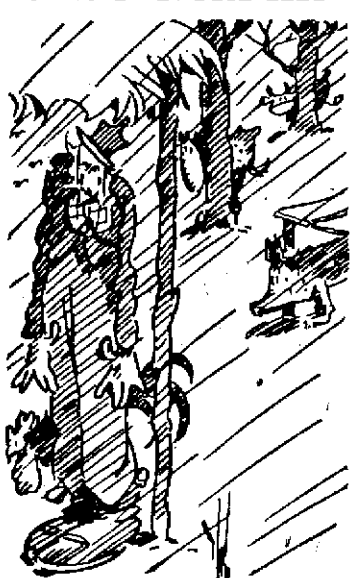

W. and August Grams have purchased the Kroodma property opposite Voegel's north side brewery. They will tear down the old buildings on the place and put up two new ones.

The project which has been under consideration for a long time for changing the street car tracks from Mill to some other street to avoid the Mill street crossing looks now as if it might be carried out, and that soon.

Supt. Valier and George Bradish were engaged in surveying new routes on Rose and Caledonia streets yesterday with that idea in view. If practicable the new route will be on Rose street and the viaduct used.

Ellis Purple who has for years been conductor on the line between Trempealeau and Galesville, has been compelled to resign his position on account of asthma and will leave in a short time for Idaho.

Romilly Inn

By JANE OSBORN

A high-powered but dusty automobile slowed down on the main street of the little village of Brompton. The owner and driver elaborately removed his goggles and halted the only citizen who happened to be in sight, Bob Thorold.

"Say, young feller," called he, "what sort of a place is it out there on the turnpike? Can you get a decent meal, hey?"

"On the turnpike?" queried Bob Thorold. "To tell the truth, I didn't know there was a decent place to eat anywhere around here. Motorists usually go on to Burton."

The driver-owner consulted the guide book that had been thrust at him by one of the occupants of the car. "What's the first turn to the right on Romilly turnpike after leaving Brompton?" he read slowly.

"Why, that would be the Romilly house. Are you sure that is what the book says?"

"Those are the words," murmured Thorold. "It can't be right—"

"Drive on," came a voice from the tonneau. "I guess the young feller hasn't waked up yet. Look the place over and if it looks O. K. we'll try."

And the man at the wheel obeyed, leaving Bob Thorold still mumbling that something must be wrong somewhere.

Bob Thorold, who kept up his ancestral home in Brompton and spent his vacations there, walked on and presently encountered Mr. Jenkins, postmaster of Brompton.

"Funny thing," said Bob: "I met some people who spoke about having meals at a white house at the first turn to the right on Romilly turnpike after leaving Brompton. That's the Romillys, isn't it?"

"Certain sure," quoth the postmaster. "Certain sure. You've heard how 'is, han't you?"

"They haven't sold the place have they?" inquired Bob. "I thought Miss Susan had vowed never to leave the old place; she isn't dead, is she?"

"Dead, nothing. The how and the wherefore is, so folks say, that they've lost their money—every darned cent of it, and Miss Jane had to open up the place as a kind of roadhouse for motorists. Gosh to me, a good thing out of it, seems to me, being as there's no other such place hereabouts and the autos are as thick as spatter along the turnpike. It's kinder too bad, though, losing all their pile. I expect it was fool investment. I'll tell you, Mr. Robert Thorold, what them ladies need and needed a long time ago was a good business man in the family, eh?"

Bob Thorold was annoyed at the postmaster's rather facetious left-handed allusion to the affair, now ten years past, between Jane Romilly and himself, but greater than his annoyance at this was his concern over the loss of the Romilly fortune that had made it necessary for Jane Romilly, now deceased, to turn her home into a roadhouse and to spend her strength supervising meals for motorists—indeed, uncouth, parvenues, thought Bob Thorold like the one he had just encountered.

Bob Thorold spent the afternoon in a long, slow ramble through the woods around Brompton. He was not much given to solitary ramblings and when he did indulge in one it was when he had much thinking to do. Toward the close of the afternoon he turned his steps toward the Romilly turnpike, down the first turn to the right and up the pathway that led to the imposing white house built by the Romillys four generations ago. The door stood open and the screen was unlocked. Within he could see that small tables had been arranged in the front and back drawing rooms—ten or fifteen in all. Of these five were occupied—five cars were parked in the spacious driveway that circled around the house.

Bob entered and took his seat at a small table. Presently a white clad waitress approached him with a list of dishes offered or that day's dinner. Bob took it with a queer thrill—it was unmistakably written by Jane Romilly. The solitary meal followed, but Jane Romilly did not appear. After it was over Bob offered his card to the maid and asked her to take it to Miss Romilly. He wished to see her.

The answer was that Miss Romilly would see him in the old dining room across the hall. She never appeared before regular dinners said the maid and her aunt remained in her room. This thought Bob, was quite in keeping with the proud spirit of the Romillys even in the hour of their misfortune.

Jane was alone in the old dining room, and she rose from her desk at one side of the room and came swiftly to him with outstretched hand.

"How amazingly well you are looking," Bob could not refrain from saying.

"Yes," laughed Jane. "The work seems to agree with me, doesn't it?"

"But why didn't you tell me? I might have helped you. You know I once got you to promise that if you ever needed help you'd forget old prejudices and send for me."

"Oh, but it was too late by the time I found out," said Jane quite cheerfully. "The harm was done and the only thing I could do was to face the music. Besides, it's been a wonderful experience. Aunt is very feeble now. She keeps to her room with her attendant and really doesn't know. And the work and the people keep me from loneliness. I really don't know how it will all end."

Bob Thorold shuddered. It was outrageous to think of Jane Romilly spending the years of her life feeding hungry motorists.

He sat beside her in the dusk and while she talked cheerfully of the weather and garden crops, Bob sat with his head bowed.

"Don't talk about such things," he burst out. "Jane, Jane—if this had only come sooner, I was in love with you—I always have been, but I never dared to ask you, because—well, because I did not think that a poor boy like me had any right to ask Jane Romilly to marry him. I was afraid of your money and your pride. I know you are still proud."

BY WILLIAMS

"No, Bob, I confess the Romilly pride is slipping away. I've learned a lot in ten years, and this little business venture, which really has been absurdly profitable, has taught me that people are pretty much the same wherever you find them. No, Bob, the Romilly fortune has remained, but I'm adding to it, but the old Romilly pride has spent itself."

"Then you didn't lose your money?" gasped Bob Thorold. "But why did you start all this?"

"Why, that's the joke. People don't think I lost my money, do they? Well, that makes it all the more interesting. No, some one of the editors of the Guide Book just made a funny mistake. Probably thought our house looked like a road house and assumed it was. And it does rather. So the people began to come and they were hungry and it was such fun feeding them and so hard to explain the mistake every time, that I was started in. I wanted to see if I had any of the Romilly bump for business. Imagine those inquisitive old Brompton natives just making it up out of whole cloth that I'd lost my money—"

"I never would have come to see you if I had not believed them," said Bob. "For my own part I'm sorry that they were wrong."

Jane Romilly leaned forward and placed a fair capable hand over one of Bob's resting on the arm of his chair.

"Perhaps I could manage to lose it—if—"

"You really will marry me—then?" stammered Bob.

And Jane said that she really would (Copyright, 1922, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate).

TWO EX-SERVICE MEN IN STATE'S PRISON PARDONED BY BLAINE

Executive Clemency Denied to Fifteen Applicants on Saturday

MADISON, Wis.—Executive clemency was extended to ten applicants for pardon and denied to fifteen by Governor John J. Blaine Saturday as a result of hearings held before him September 21.

The story of crime that led to imprisonment and the mitigating circumstances that brought about a pardon were recounted by the governor in statements accompanying his orders directing officers of state institutions to extend clemency to prisoners whose application for pardon were favorably received.

John May of Wood county, serving ten years for assault with attempt to rob, will go free under a conditional pardon, as a result of action by the governor. His hearing brought out that he has served overseas, had been wounded, and come back to America to find himself without work and without funds. He took an automobile, robbed a bank at Marshfield and was captured.

Governor Blaine said that "This boy is a victim of the late war and his mental and physical condition is such that he should not be abandoned now."

The sentence of Frank Lee, Milwaukee, was commuted from seven to five years, making him eligible to parole next year. He had been in a party which robbed a saloonkeeper's home at West Allis. Governor Blaine found that he had served as a coxswain in the navy during the war but stated that although "Lee performed no signal service during the war and this offense cannot be traceable to his services his former good conduct and devotion to duty entitle him to some consideration."

Christ Vick of Dane county, serving two years for larceny got a conditional pardon.

"Vick stole a pig and away he ran—in an automobile," the governor said, adding, however, that "the pig did not get loose, but Vick got in the automobile and after driving eight or nine miles butchered it."

WIRELESS SERVICE ON SUNDAY IS A FEATURE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Something new in religious services will be inaugurated at the First Methodist Church Sunday afternoon at 4:30 when the general secretary of the Epworth League of the Methodist church will broadcast a message from Chicago which all wireless stations in this vicinity may receive.

By the courtesy of Mr. G. O. Stoffer a wireless set will be set up at the King street church and if weather conditions are favorable it is expected that the message will be heard and also other numbers of a complete program including songs by the Rock River Conference Quartet. The Epworth League of Caledonia Street and West Avenue will unite for this meeting and for any who wish to remain for the evening service refreshments will be served.

Governor Blaine pardoned him so that he might support his wife and child.

Killian J. Schwartz of Milwaukee had his sentence of seven years commuted so that he is eligible to parole November 7. Schwartz, sentenced for embezzlement, is free so that he may support his wife and four children.

An absolute pardon was granted Avis Stewart, Milwaukee, serving a term in the Industrial School for Girls for incontinence.

John Muenier, Milwaukee, serving one year for burglary, was given a conditional pardon in order that he might support his wife and child. A conditional pardon was also given Walter G. Pauly, Waukesha county, serving four years for burglary.

Osa Campbell, Langlade county, serving three years for adultery, was given a conditional pardon by the governor. Frank Schmidt, Milwaukee, was also conditionally pardoned from serving the remainder of his five year sentence for larceny. Jerome Wojtazewicz, Racine county, serving three years for burglary, was granted a conditional pardon by the governor.

Governor Blaine denied the following applications for pardons:

Eli Kranich, Milwaukee, serving five years for robbery.

Thomas Rosso, Barron county, serving life for murder in first degree.

Hugo Wenzel, Milwaukee, serving eight years for burglary.

Herman Claussen, Milwaukee, serving three years for burglary.

Nathan W. Wolf, Milwaukee, serving five years for larceny.

Fred McCree, Milwaukee, serving ten years for robbery.

Roger Gilbert, Milwaukee, serving three years for robbery.

Steve Tuska, Milwaukee, serving fifteen years for assault.

Matt H. Beckum, Monroe county, serving three years for assault.

Pasquale Dardono, Milwaukee, serving seven years for assault.

Ostac Zalinski, Milwaukee, serving fifteen years for rape.

Ernest Schneider, Langlade county, serving 25 years for murder in second degree.

Mike Szablewski, Milwaukee, serving 20 years for assault while armed.

Louis Szablewski and Henry Kielas, Milwaukee county, had their applications deferred. The two are serving 20 year sentences for assault and robbery.

Clarence Wilson, Douglas county, serving 18 months for larceny, will be eligible for parole at next meeting of the board of control.

SECOND NOMINATION PAPERS FOR DEMS ARE NOT REQUIRED

MADISON, Wis.—Circulation or filing of a second set of nomination papers is neither required nor authorized for democratic candidates in the September primary election who failed to poll the needed 10 per cent of the vote for governor on the democratic election, F. E. Bump, assistant attorney general ruled Friday.

In an opinion given to M. J. Paul, district attorney at Berlin, Wis., Mr. Bump advised that the democratic candidates go on the official ballot of the November election in the independent column by the force of the primary law.

HOUSE-HOLDERS ARE CALLED ON TO SAVE COAL THIS WINTER

Conservation Will be Necessary to Assure Ample Supply for all Says State Committee

MADISON, Wis.—Conservation of coal is going to be necessary in Wisconsin homes this winter to assure an ample supply of fuel to meet all needs, the state coal committee admonished domestic users in a statement today. The committee outlines suggestions for saving fuel that may be applied in homes.

It urges that soft coal and wood be used in place of hard coal, supplies of which will be meager. Request is made that people refrain from starting their furnaces until as late in the year as possible.

Wasteful lights should be cut out during daylight hours to save coal, the committee says. It advises that soot should be cleaned from pipes, which ought to be covered. Sifting the ashes is suggested as a means of saving coal and money.

the day, sunlight will furnish free heat, the committee advises, suggesting also that the temperature in homes be maintained at 6 degrees instead of 70.

Estimate is made that domestic users in this country may save 40,000,000 tons of coal by using a shovelful less three times a day. Saving may be made by co-operation of all the people, the committee says.

GAS AND ELECTRIC UTILITIES IN STATE WORTH 23 MILLION

Tax on Property Will Bring Over Seven Million into State Coffers

MADISON, Wis.—Gas and electric utilities in Wisconsin were valued at approximately $25,000,000 by the state tax commission in its preliminary assessment completed Saturday. The tax on this property, assessed at the local general property tax rate, is expected to total over $7,000,000, all of which reverts to the community in which the utility is located.

The value of the Milwaukee Gas Light company property is set at $16,000,000, the highest of any in the state, while property of the Wisconsin River Power company was assessed at $5,000,000. The Madison Gas and Electric Power company is valued at $3,500,000, the Oshkosh Gas Light and Heat company at $1,600,000 and the Southern Wisconsin Power company at $1,500,000.

Property of the Lake Superior District Power company was valued at $600,000, property of the Janesville Electric company at $600,000, and that of the Blue Island Light and Power company at $375,000.

In The MOVIES

"DOMESTIC RELATIONS"—RIVOLI

An extraordinary photoplay, because it is so true to every-day life, is Katherine MacDonald's newest production, "Domestic Relations," which closes at the Rivoli Theater.

The author has woven a parallel between the acts of a judge and of a laboring man, both of them married and both of them more or less self-centered and lacking that something which a wife yearns for and demands to make her happy.

Both husbands are of a suspicious nature and when they become aroused they act each in his own way. The judge drives his wife out of his home; the laborer beats his wife. But the cause in each case has been the same. Arraigned before the judge, the laborer is sentenced to a term in prison—the judge blind to his own faults.

Out of this interesting and dramatic contrapuntal the author and director have made a cinema masterpiece of real life—one that will move of vital interest to every person.

CASINO TODAY

The filming of serial pictures is regarded as the most hazardous type of picture-making work. But Leatrice Joy believes differently.

The charming Cecil B. DeMille actress asserts that appearing before the camera under Mr. DeMille's direction puts to shame all serial thrills ever experienced.

The preceding Cecil B. DeMille production, "Saturday Night," recorded Miss Joy driving a roadster onto a trestle and hanging suspended beneath it while a passenger train crashed into the stalled car. Another series of scenes in the same picture depicted a thrilling tenement fire in which Miss Joy narrowly escaped death.

TOM MOORE — MAJESTIC

"From the Ground Up," a picture by Rupert Hughes, closes today at the Majestic Theater. It is a capital comedy with the smiling Tom Moore in the leading role of Terence Gilley, a ditch-digger. Those who remember Mr. Moore as a whiteboy in "Hold Your Horses," may get some idea of this actor's inimitable Celtic grin. But he has more than that. Mr. Gilley's rise in the world brings cares he did not know in his digging days. He begins to have worries—money and a woman. However, the woman is Helene Chadwick.

Mr. Moore did not get the sympathy of this reviewer. He knew that the beautiful Helene would come around in time—and she did. But until she discovered the great lover in her admirer, Terence Gilley put in some doleful days and nights. Many difficulties must have been encountered in photographing the iron frame-work of a sky-scraper with the actors balancing on the beams. It is thrilling to watch and must have been nerve-testing to do.

STRAND TODAY

Pretty, talented Jane Thomas who sprang into prominence as "Ruth Webb" in the William Fox production of "Silver Wings," starring Mary Carr, which is showing now at the Strand theater, has shown a marked reticence as to uncovering any of her personal affairs so dear to the "movie" fans.

Imagine the joy of having a chat with Jane and finally getting everything at first hand. It would have thrilled the most callous observer and in view of that, it is just possible that the most important question went unasked.

However, movie fans, you'll like to know that Jane's eyes are brown, with long lashes, guiltless of the least dab of mascara; that her hair is brown and curly, that her mouth is the tiniest and prettiest that any mortal would look at.

INVESTIGATE MINE BLAST IN WHICH 5 MINERS LOST LIVES

Over 350 Men Working in Pit When Explosion Occurs Make Way to Safety

JOHNSON CITY, N. Y.—By The Associated Press.—Investigation of the explosion in the Lake Creek mine of the Consolidated Coal company of St. Louis near here, which caused the death of five men Friday afternoon, was planned Saturday in connection with the coroner's inquest, which was scheduled to be held.

Officials of the mine expressed the belief that the explosion was caused when three surveyors with oil burning lamps attached to their caps entered an unworked room in which gas had accumulated. The three surveyors and two miners working near the unworked room were killed.

More than 350 men were working in the pit when the explosion occurred, but all but five either escaped or were rescued. Three miners were overcome slightly by gas.

Whole Duty of Poets

It is necessary to pretend that England is a green and pleasant land; at present, you need not say that America is pleasant; you can make it infernal; but you must make out that it is big, that it is new, that it contains the germ of a colossal growth. And beneath this there is commonplace and conventionality.—T. S. Eliot, in the Dial.

TO SHOW PICTURES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SUNDAY

View of Work of Missionary Board to be Shown at the Evening Service

A new version of the "League of Nations" will be illustrated at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday evening; when pictures of the industrial and educational work of the Missionary Board of that church will be shown. After the close of the great war, this west coast of Africa was given up by the Germans, who were not prepared to carry on any advance methods of civilization. However, a friendly hand, under the sovereignty of the Stars and Stripes was offered by this church, which now has over seven hundred branch stations where the preliminaries of education are carried on. This leads up to preparation for entrance in the varied industrial schools now in operation. Here tailoring, gardening, carpentering, wicker and wood working, cooking and medicine are taught. Already over a thousand native helpers are engaged all the time, and the people are neighborly and contented. A brief sketch of one of the American workers who has given his life to this field will be outlined in connection with the pictures. There will also be scenes from the shops and factories showing the native artisans at their places of employment.

The perseverance of these heroic leaders is well illustrated by scenes showing the spirit with which they overcome difficulties and make the most of crude circumstances. When the Germans gave up this territory they had a quite a quantity of machinery on hand, including trucks and motorcycles. But they dismantled and broke everything possible. Yet, out of these "scraps" the pupils of the schools have built a truck, a steam engine and numerous apparatus for the shops.

The hero of this position, who has manifested such unusual pluck and energy is called by the natives "Tree-not-shaken-by-the-wind," as a compliment to his courage, although his American name is likewise suggestive.

This is the first in the series of "illustrated addresses" to be given throughout the season by the pastor, Reverend Claude R. Shaver.

REVOLT IN JUAREZ OF SHORT DURATION 10 DIE IN FIGHTING

The Rio Grande from here, had revolted, preparations were taken to send troop reinforcements to the American side of the international bridge.

At 8:30 a. m. Saturday persons having business interests were permitted to enter Juarez.

American soldiers were stationed at the bridge to protect hundreds of Juarez citizens crossing to El Paso for safety.

Some of the shots from the early morning battle hit the United States public health service building.

Prisoners are Freed

EL PASO, Tex.—The Juarez garrison revolted at two o'clock Saturday morning. Led by Captain Val Verde, of the 143rd battalion the 150 soldiers stationed in the Mexican city released all prisoners from the city jail, imprisoned their officers and took possession of the town.

At three o'clock looting had begun along Calle Comercio, the main street.

The prisoners, among whom were a dozen men held on murder charges, had obtained rifles and ammunition.

Col. A. Espinoza, commanding officer of the battalion which revolted, was prisoner of the rebels in his own quarters. Every other officer of the organization was held by the revolutionists under heavy guard.

Police and customs guards of Juarez, stunned by the sudden rebellion, offered no resistance to the soldiers and released prisoners.

Among the prisoners released from the jail were three men who were under life sentences on charges of murder. A dozen American women and men were also set free.

Two Americans Wounded

EL PASO, Tex.—Two Americans, citizens of El Paso, were slightly wounded on this side from stray bullets during the fighting, occasioned by the revolt of the Juarez garrison. One was Miss Vicente Creceles, 22, shot in the shoulder and Luis Ponce, a fruit peddler, whose clothing was torn by a bullet. He was only scratched.

FLYERS KILLED

MOUNT VERNON, O.—Amos L. Leithy and Marion Dunlap were instantly killed when their airplane crashed to the ground on Main street Saturday afternoon. Leithy was from Orrville, Ohio, and Dunlap from this city.

CITY ENGINEER TO BE NAMED BY MAYOR ON MONDAY NIGHT

Number of Important Matters to Come Before Special Session

The appointment of a city engineer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George P. Bradish is one of the most important matters included on the call for a special session of the common council next Monday night.

Following are other matters which will be up for consideration: Report of the mayor's special committee with reference to grading of various streets; report of board of education of bids received for north branch school building; Resolution to open and extend Rose street diagonally from its present terminal to the east line of Mill and Bantam streets and to condemn land for said purposes; resolution authorizing the board of public works to employ a street superintendent; communication from the La Crosse telephone company with reference to the placing of the fire alarm wire on Badger street underground; resolution granting the Lions club permission to erect signs along a route through the city of La Crosse.

R. E. ZIMMER SETTLES HIS SUIT AGAINST DALE OUT OF COURT

The damage suit brought by R. E. Zimmer, employed by the Interstate Oil company, against Vernon Dale, garage owner of Onalaska, has been settled out of court. Zimmer sued Dale for $180, contending that a car that he had turned over to Dale for sale had been damaged and also had been driven 1,154 miles. Dale declared that he had tried to repair the damages and that he drove the car only to demonstrate it to prospective buyers. Zimmer started suit in Judge Hunt's court. Lawrence Brody was his lawyer and O. J. Swennes appeared for Dale.

REPORT DISAPPEARANCE OF ARMS IN SIBERIA

TOKIO.—By The Associated Press.—Official investigations have confirmed reports of the disappearance of large quantities of arms in Siberia, according to a statement Saturday from a most reliable authority. One consignment of thirty-two truckloads is known to have gone to Mukden, headquarters of Chang Tso-lin, the "uncrowned king" of Manchuria.

Pictures of finger prints are now sent by wireless.

SMITH IS NAMED FOR GOVERNOR IN EMPIRE STATE CONVENTION

Hearst Withdraws Name on Eve of Meeting; Copeland is Named for Senate

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Delegates to the democratic convention, which opened with bitter quarrels and ended in apparent peace, left for their homes Saturday to plan for the fall campaign.

While Albert E. Smith was nominated for governor unanimously, democrats were wondering whether W. R. Hearst, who sought the nomination, would support the ticket. In a telegram to his representatives withdrawing his name, Mr. Hearst said he would not go on any ticket "which being reactionary, would be a betrayal of genuine democracy."

The nominee for United States senator is Dr. R. S. Copeland, New York City health commissioner, and friend of Mayor Hylan, who was Mr. Hearst's spokesman.

Hailstones are not always round and it is doubtful if they are ever found in a greater variety of shapes than those which fell in Boston on a Sunday afternoon in June last. SULTAN OF TURKEY DECLARES HE WILL NOT LEAVE THRONE

Ottoman Sovereign Firm in Resolve that He Will Not Abdicate

CONSTANTINOPLE.—By The Associated Press.—In a letter to an intimate friend, the sultan, reports of whose abdication have been in circulation, declares he will not abdicate. "I shall continue to discharge my holy duties until the end," he wrote. "When the nationalists enter Constantinople, I shall have something pertinent to say to them. I have done what I believed was to the interests of my country and my people. I have made mistakes, but they were human. The nationalists admit I have been kept a prisoner in Constantinople. Therefore, how can I be responsible for the adversity of my people?"

The palace officials say the sultan is firmly resolved to retain his throne. However, should he be forced to abdicate, he will be permitted to remain on Turkish soil, it is understood. It is suggested he will be given one of the numerous palaces on the Bosphorus, in one of which his brother, the late Sultan Abdul Hamid died.

WITHDRAWAL OF BRITISH FORCES DEMAND OF TURK

Thrace and protect its compatriots suffering oppression from the enemy army of occupation.

Land Reinforcements

CONSTANTINOPLE.—By The Associated Press.—Large forces of British infantry have been landed here from the trans-Atlantic liner Glen-gorm Castle. These soldiers are to reinforce the lines on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus which the British will defend in the event the Turkish nationalist army at Ismid begins a movement towards Constantinople. The Kemal army is understood to consist of two divisions.

The arrival of these several thousand additional British troops has encouraged the Greeks and the Armenians her to discard their Turkish fezzes and resume conventional western headgear. At the beginning of the present crisis every Greek and Armenian provided himself with a fez which he wore continuously until he thought the danger of Turkish occupation was past. British airplanes flew over the capital Saturday causing a flurry of excitement in Stambul. The aerial maneuvers gave the populace another evidence of Great Britain's preparedness to meet eventualities.

The continued arrival of British war units has lessened the danger of an uprising within the city and checked the panicky flight of Christians to neighboring countries.

France Insists on Neutrality

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—France stands firmly by her decision, taken with England and Italy last Saturday, to insist upon Turkish recognition of the neutrality of the zones, of the straits and while there is no question at the moment of military force to back up this attitude the French government will exert its fullest influence to induce the Turks to withdraw.

This was the view in official circles Saturday, following the British demand for the retirement of the Turkish nationalists from the Chanak area.

France does not take as critical view of the situation as does Great Britain the belief being expressed that the strained relations between the Turks and the British in the Chanak zone can be settled without recourse to armed conflict. There is no effort however, to minimize the serious possibilities of the present developments and the government has telegraphed its representatives in the Near East to use the full force of French influence upon Mustafa Kemal Pasha in order to effect immediate evacuation of the invaded zone.

On the other hand, officials here say the Turks have reason for alarm in the events which now are occupying in Eastern Thrace. Deportations of Mussulmans have already begun in Thrace and the wholesale killing of Turkish subjects there is considered not improbable.

This, together with the determination of the Athens government to defend Thrace, is reacting unfavorably on the Turkish attitude, it is explained that favorable indications have been received from M. Franklin-Bouillon after his talks with Kemal, but that the Turkish leader has reserved his final decision on the allied terms until the vote of the Angora assembly on the question, expected today or tomorrow.

French Envoy at Smyrna
CONSTANTINOPLE.—When M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French envoy, arrived at Smyrna he was met in the harbor by Mustafa Kemal Pasha who saluted him and kissed him on both cheeks.

After a further exchange of amenities the pair went ashore and held a long conversation in the house in which former King Constantine of Greece resided during his visit to Smyrna last year.

"You have been a long time coming," Kemal told his visitor. "I have purposely delayed my return to Angora to discuss the present situation with you."

Advices from Adana Friday said Kemal and M. Bouillon were leaving for Angora. The French envoy is to urge upon the Turkish nationalist chief the necessity of retaining his forces in Asia Minor until peace terms are decided upon, meanwhile avoiding a clash with the British.

BELIEVE ROBBERS WORKED UNTIL NEAR DAYLIGHT IN BANK

Automobile Heard Passing Farm House and Lights Seen in La Crescent Bank

That the yeggmen who robbed the La Crescent State bank of $40 and made an unsuccessful attempt to gain entrance to the safety deposit vault, did the work and escaped during the early hours Friday morning was the theory established following two clues in the hands of the police Saturday.

In investigating the robbery Friday, police learned that a local physician making a call to La Crescent at 4:30 Friday morning, saw lights burning in the bank at that hour. A farmer, living near La Crescent, made a statement Friday afternoon that he had heard an automobile, which he believed to be a Chevrolet, pass his farm at about 5 o'clock Friday morning. Which direction the farmer lived from La Crescent was not learned by the police.

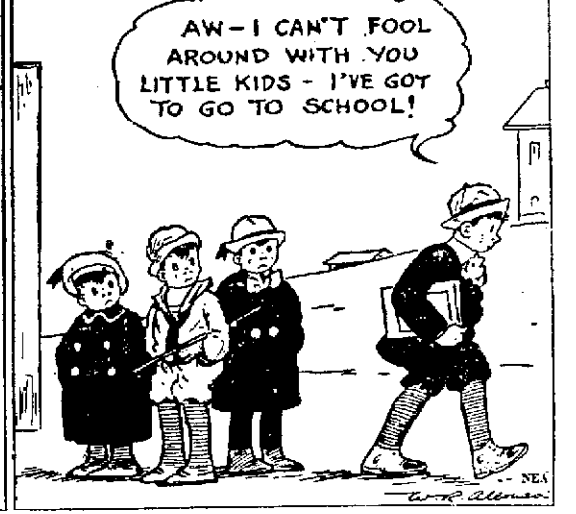

With these two clues in the hands of the police, it was generally believed that the yeggmen worked until near daylight, and after their futile attempt to open the vault, made their escape in the stolen automobile. Chief John B. Webber made photographs for finger prints on Friday.

TOBACCO POOL DIRECTORS MAY START NEWSPAPER

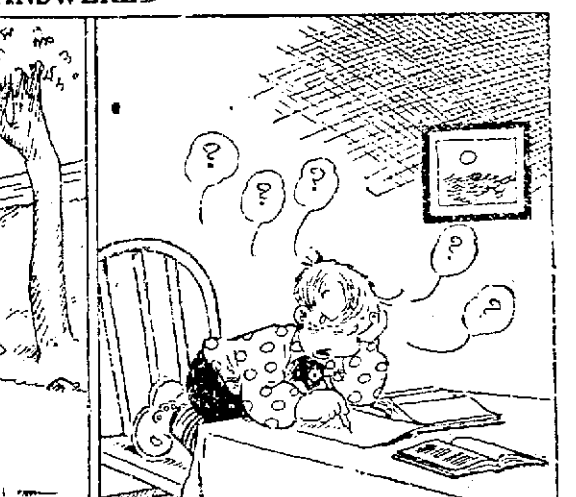

MADISON, Wis.—The board of directors of the Northern Wisconsin Tobacco pool, Friday appointed a committee to investigate the advisability of purchasing or starting a newspaper to further the interests of the organization.

TWELVE AMERICAN DESTROYERS SAIL MONDAY FOR EAST

Warships to Proceed to Constantinople to Protect American Interests

WASHINGTON.—The two destroyer divisions of six destroyers each, ordered to proceed from Norfolk to Constantinople "for the protection of American interests," will be ready to sail Monday noon, Captain C. M. Tozer, who will command the squadron, Saturday notified the navy department.

The destroyers will supplement the American naval forces in European waters, which now consist of twelve vessels, including eight destroyers and two submarine chasers.

The battleship Utah, flagship of the European squadron, now is en route to Gibraltar with Vice Admiral A. T. Long on board.

OPEN AIR SERVICE

If certain Individuals at the Salvation Army open air meetings were "tags" giving their Professions you would know the value of this work.

A great American called these meetings "The conscience of the street corner." In 1,117 of the larger towns and cities of the United States almost nightly the old, old story is told and the old, old songs are sung. The power of brass musical instruments and uniforms, that thirty million Americans stopped last year to listen to the direct appeal for better life. This preaching of the Gospel in action, to the simplest of men, appeals alike to non-believers, protestants, Catholics and Jews. Thousands who have deserted the faith of their parents are stirred by these meetings and they return into the church they have deserted. Study the faces of the people who listen to these meetings. Many are good citizens like yourself, some have the stamp of crime and vice on their faces. In the larger cities these meetings are held on the street corners where the unlawful pass. As a preventive measure there are few forms of social service which can measure up to the Salvation Army Open Air meetings. No corrective forms of service equal it. The army's annual campaign week is October 15 to 22.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.-Higher quotations at Liverpool in the face of better political news in Europe was reflected in wheat market here today. Wheat values showed some strength, December being in the lead. Fluctuations were rapid, however, because of evening up of outstanding contracts. The opening which varied from unchanged to 1/4c advances with December $1.04 1/2 to $1.05 and May $1.03 1/2 to $1.04 1/2. The closing was a slight decline, then something of a general rally.

Evening up on September contracts became more general toward the finish, and the close was strong with values showing a net gain of 1/4 to 3/8c, with December $1.05 1/2 to $1.06 and May $1.04 1/2 to $1.05 1/2. Corn followed wheat, active deliveries showing most strength. Selling was lower to a 1/4c advance. December 55 1/2 to 56c the market scored moderate gains all around.

Prices changed rapidly and at the finish the market was unsettled with values ranging from 1/2c decline to 1/4c advance, with December 55 1/2 to 56c. Oats started lower to 1/4c, with December 36 1/2 to 37c and later scored slight general gains. Provisions were slightly lower.

NATIONALS HIT TWICE
BY CONNIE'S CHARGES

Tobin's Two Home Runs Win
One for Browns

CHANCE FOR BROWNS
By winning while the Yankees were losing, the St. Louis Browns improved their chances of tying the Yankees for the American league title. They must win their remaining two games and the Yankees must lose theirs to assure a post series.

BOSTON—Boston again defeated the league leading New York Yankees on Friday. Jack Quinn, former Yankee spitball star, held the visitors to five hits and had the better of Bob Shawkey in a sensational play-off game. As the St. Louis Browns won their game on Friday with Chicago, the pennant issue in the American league remains undecided. To clinch the flag the Yankees must win a game or the Browns lose one.

The winning run was scored in the sixth on John Collins' double to right center. Mitchell's sacrifice hit drove the third base line, and Ruel's drive which Scott managed to knock down. Collins scored as Scott threw out Ruel. Ruel's fielding was sensational. His single hit was a bunt with one out and none on in the sixth. The score:
New York 000 000 000—0
Boston 000 001 000—1
Shawkey and Schanz; Quinn and Ruel.

Macks 4-8; Griffs, 3-4
PHILADELPHIA—Philadelphia took both ends of a doubleheader from Washington on Friday, winning the first game in twelve innings, 4 to 3 and the second, 8 to 4. The first game was a pitchers' battle between Ogden and Erickson and the former gave way to Rommel in the twelfth. Ogden won his twenty-sixth victory. Brillhart was driven from the mound in the second contest. Hasty had it easy after the third inning. Scores:
First Game:
Washington 100 001 000 001—3
Philadelphia 001 001—000 002—4
Erickson and Lapan; Scheer; Ogden, Rommel and Bruggy, Perkins.
Second Game—
Washington 020 101 000—4
Philadelphia 105 110 000—8
Brillhart, Turk and Gharriety; Hasty and Bruggy.

Browns 3; Sox 2
ST. LOUIS—Two home runs by Johnny Tobin and masterful pitching in the pinches by Van Gilder, gave St. Louis a 3 to 2 victory over Chicago on Friday in the first game of the final series of the season. Tobin, the locals lead off man, clouted the first ball Faber pitched, and it went into the right field stands for a circuit drive. His second homer came in the third inning on his second trip to the plate and the ball fell virtually in the same place the first one did. Tobin was the first man up in this inning also.

The victory continues the mathematical possibility of the Browns taking the pennant in view of New York's defeat by Boston on Friday. Should the locals win their two remaining games and the Yankees lose theirs the teams would be tied for first place and a playoff series would be necessary.
Chicago 000 100 100—2
St. Louis 101 010 000—3
Faber, Leverette and Schalk; Van Gilder and Collins.

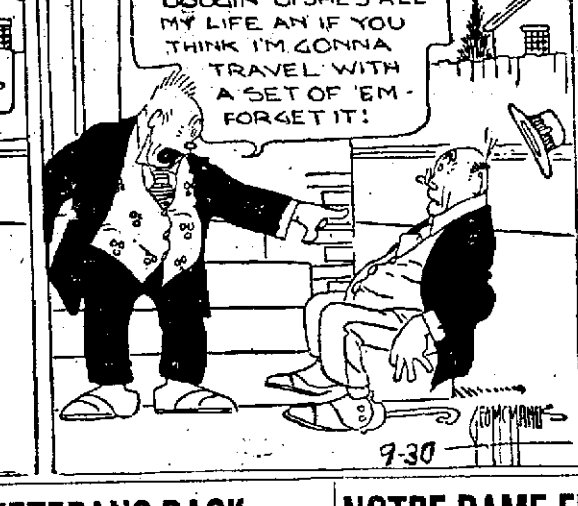

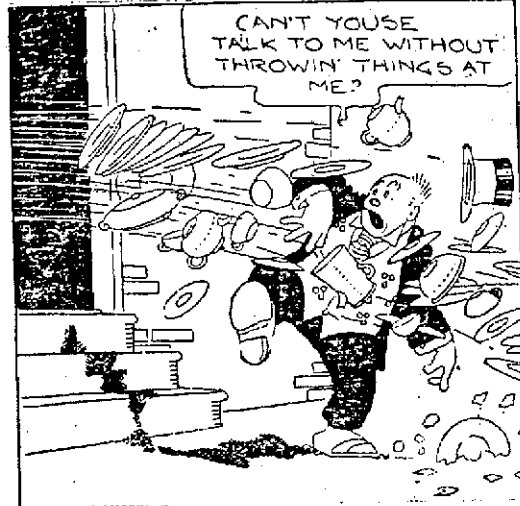

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Cubs 3; Cards 0
CHICAGO—Ernest Osborn held St. Louis to two hits, while Chicago clinched five of its hits off Pfeffer and defeated the visitors, 3 to 0 in the first game of the final series of the year. Score:
St. Louis 000 000 000—0
Chicago 020 000 100—3
Pfeffer, North and Ainsmith; Osborn and O'Farrell.

LAWRENCE OPENS SEASON WITH TEN REGULARS MISSING

Battle Stevens Point Normal
at Appleton Saturday Afternoon

APPLETON, Wis.—When Lawrence college opens its season here Friday against Stevens Point normal school, ten regulars from the last year's football team that annexed the collegiate championship of Wisconsin will be out of the line-up. Coach McChesney has had to reconstruct an entire team around Basinz, a backfield man, and Captain McGlynn.

Those who failed to return are Ketcham, ex-captain; Smith, center; Ziebel, quarterback; Winder and Boecher, halves; Stark and Northington, ends; Brunum and Sorenson, tackles, and Wheeler, a utility end.

To fill in these places Coach McChesney has had to resort to freshmen and sophomores. Burt Preston, Berlin and Packard, Antigo, are candidates for guard. Stuebenvoll, who played center with the University of Wisconsin freshmen last year, has been out for practice. Kotai is in the field for quarterback, with other backfield aspirants, Curry, DeLong, McCorkle and Grover. McCorkle of Superior is seeking a berth at end. The school is preparing for its contest with Hamlin college of Minnesota, intercollegiate champions of that state. The two teams meet November 18 in the feature game of the season.

Following is the schedule of games for the year:
Stevens Point Normal at Appleton, September 30.
Carroll College at Appleton, October 7.
Beloit at Beloit, October 21.
Northwestern College at Appleton, November 4.
Ripon at Ripon, November 11.
Hamlin at Appleton, November 18.

FOOTBALL THE ONLY GAME FORBIDDEN TO GIRLS OF LONDON

Sports Beneficial to Young Womanhood Declares Investigating Committee

LONDON—Games, with the exception of football, are beneficial for girls, according to a committee appointed at the suggestion of the College of Preceptors to consider the effects of physical education of girls and young women.

The committee, comprised 233 doctors, 185 head school mistresses and 159 women students. Almost with one voice they declared themselves on the side of the sports-girl and the opponents of games for girls have apparently retired from the field defeated.

The committee made a thorough investigation, and as a result all games were advocated for girls, with the exception of football which was almost unanimously condemned. Lacrosse, cricket and swimming were considered the most beneficial.

It reported that every school and student questioned said the athletic training of girls developed a broad and healthy outlook on life and made them public spirited, courageous and resourceful. Doctors expressed the opinion that physical exercise had a beneficial effect on child-bearing.

GOVERNOR HOLDS UP ACTION ON PARDONS OF DRY VIOLATORS

Kenosha Men Convicted Under Liquor Laws Seek Commu-
tation of Sentences

MADISON, Wis.—Twenty pardon applications, including those of four additional Kenosha men serving time for violation of the prohibition laws, are to be heard by Governor J. J. Blaine, Wednesday, October 4.

Action on the applications for pardon of the Kenosha men convicted under the liquor laws will be held up, the governor has indicated, until a special commissioner can be appointed to investigate their sentences.

Joe Gallo, Kenosha county, serving life for murder in the first degree, and Raymond Branshaw, Price county, serving 14 years for murder in the second degree, have the longest sentences of any applicants for pardon.

Following are the prisoners asking executive clemency:
Walter Oleniczak, Milwaukee, serving ten years for burglary.
Eveline Turner, Langlade county, serving five years for receiving stolen property.

Ida King, Langlade county, serving five years for receiving stolen property.
Arthur Balo, Douglas county, serving four and one-half years for operating an automobile without the owner's consent.

Wesley Scott, Milwaukee, serving four years for forgery.
John and Mary Haffner, Milwaukee, serving two years for operating a house of ill-fame.

Edward Richard, Waukesha county, serving three years for burglary.
Frank Carter, Eau Claire county, serving ten years for assault.

Jon Gallo, Kenosha, serving life for murder in first degree.

Jack Kuzmas, Kenosha, serving one year and $600 fine for keeping disorderly house.

Nathan Gordon, Kenosha, serving 15 months and $3,500 fine for violation of the prohibition law.

Joseph Filko, Kenosha, serving one year and $500 fine for violating prohibition law.

Ben Loef, Kenosha county, serving six months and $1,010 fine for violation of prohibition law.

Julius Klous, Kenosha, serving one year and $500 fine for violating prohibition law.

Raymond Branshaw, Price county, serving 14 years for murder in second degree.

Ernest Forster, Eau Claire county, serving four years for receiving stolen property.

Charles Horak, Milwaukee, serving three years for larceny.

William Molender, Milwaukee, serving five years for forgery.

Juste Fontaine, Milwaukee, serving ten years for assault with intent to rape.

Edmund Gorman, Milwaukee, serving until 18 years of age for larceny.

BASEBALL BRIEFS
CHICAGO, Ill.—The Yankees sustained another reverse Friday at the hands of the Red Sox one to nothing. The Browns meanwhile clung to the lead, and thus necessitate a play-off series by defeating the Chicago White Sox 3 to 2.

One victory for the Yankees or a defeat for the Browns will settle the race.

Washington dropped a double-header to the Athletics and Osborne of Chicago blanked St. Louis Cardinals, allowing but two hits.

14 VETERANS BACK FOR FOOTBALL AT "U" OF INDIANA

Wealth of Good Material from
'21 Freshmen Squad Report to Stiehman

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Fourteen veterans from last year's football team at Indiana University will be back this fall striving for places on the varsity which Coach E. O. Stiehman will build. There also is a wealth of good material from last year's freshman squad.

Indiana will play only three Western Conference teams this year, but the schedule includes games with Notre Dame, Michigan Aggies and West Virginia. The Big Ten teams to be played are Minnesota, Wisconsin and Purdue.

The schedule follows:
Oct. 7, DePauw at Bloomington.
Oct. 14, Minnesota at Indianapolis.

Oct. 21, Wisconsin at Madison.
Oct. 28, Michigan Aggies at Bloomington.
Nov. 4, Notre Dame at South Bend.

Nov. 11, West Virginia at Bloomington.
Nov. 25, Purdue at Lafayette.

POLICE REFUSE TO CATER TO APPETITES OF TRAMP EPICURES

FRANKLIN, Pa.—Ham and eggs was scratched from the menu for prisoners in the city lockup. Bread and coffee was substituted.

"Too many bums," explained Chief of Police O'Connell.

The chief of police said that the straw that fractured the camel's spine was the demand of a vagrant for French fried potatoes on the side.

SPORT BRIEFS

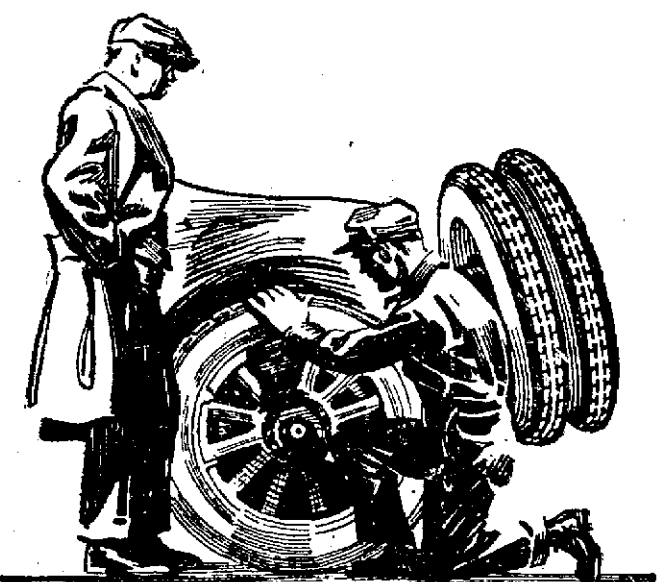

NEW YORK—Harry Willis knocked out Clem Johnson, South American heavyweight, in the twelfth round.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Clive Tait, Canadian lightweight, beat Ever Hammer of Chicago in ten rounds.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Harry Greb beat Captain Bob Roper in ten rounds.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Melville P. Dickinson of Binghamton, N. Y., was elected captain of the Princeton football team by 1921 letter-men.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—America's hope of keeping the national women's golf championship at home this year rested Saturday on Miss Glenna Collett, the 18-year-old Providence star, who in the final round of the tournament here was pitted against Mrs. William A. Gavin, the English player who aspires to add the American title to her recently won Canadian crown.
